One person killed in the "L" collision in Brooklyn. Several injured in the New York L collision. Many narrow escapes.

An accident happened on the Kings County Elevated Railroad, in Brooklyn, this morning, which resulted in the loss of one man's

It was 7.05 o'clock when down train No. 24, Patrick Downs, engineer, arrived at the Nostrand avenue station on the Fulton Avenue line.

It had four cars, all crowded with men and women on the way to work.

The fog was very dense, so thick that one could scarcely see objects a few feet distant.

No. 24 was about to pull out when train No. 25, Engineer Winterbottom, came down. No. 25, Engineer Winterbottom, came down. It was moving slowly, but the engineer could not check up in time to prevent a crash into the rear platform of train No. 24, and the result was a shock and a panic among the passengers on both trains, particularly among those on the forward train.

Samuel Kniffin, a painter, sixty-five years old, was in the forward ear of train No. 24, and when the crash came he ran out to the rear platform, threw open the gate on the right hand or inner side and jumped from the car.

Toundaman Barry, of the Twelfth Precinct, stood on the corner in front of H. Kornahren's grocery when Kniffin came tumbling down to the pavement in front of him. He ran to the man's assistance, reaching him just in time to see him gasy and die. The body was removed to the Ninth Precinct Station at Gates and Marcy avenues, where Coroner Lindsay viewed it.

Kniffin was employed by T. B. Colher, at Spencer street and Myrtle avenue, and was on his way to work when the accident happened. He was a married man, but did not live with his wife, and he boarded at 323 Ralph avenue.

When the collision occurred the passengers in the rear car of the first train were pitched forward and jammed into a heap, the women screaming and the men shouting and struggling to escape, they knew not where.

The passengers in all the cars on both trains were badly shaken up and bruised, but none of them was seriously injured as far as could be ascertained. The greatest shock none of them was seriously injured as far as could be ascertamed. The greatest shock was felt in the forward train.

The engine of the rear train wrecked the platform of the rear car of the train in front

Mr. T. Edwin Isaacks, a gentleman seventy-three years old, who lives at 121 Herkimer street, near the scene of the accident, told an Evening Wonto reporter that he was at breakfast and hearing a lord he was at breakfast, and, hearing a loud erash, ran out to see what had occurred. The fog was so dense be could not see the length of his walking-stick, but he heard the screams of women and the shouts of men proceeding from the trains above him, while Knithin lay dead in the street before him

Other persons in the neighborhood de-scribed the scene which followed the crash, and all unite in saying that the escape of the passengers was miraculous. A delay of nearly an hour was caused on

A delay of hearly an hour was caused on the road by the accident.

Within five minutes after the first accident enother collision is said to have happened at the same station, but beyond a slight shaking up of the passengers nothing of a serious nature happened.

Conductor No. 20, of car No. 162, had his ankle wrenched in the second collision.

TRAINS SMASHED AT 104TH STREET--PANIC AMONG THE PASSENGERS.

Another alarming collision occurred shortly sefore 8 o'clock this morning on the line of the Sixth and Ninth Avenue roads at One Hundred and Fourth street.

A through Sixth avenue train from One Hundred and Fifty-fith street to Cortlands street, crowded with passengers, steamed round the difficult and dangerous One Hundred and Tenth street curve which is the horror of all traveliers of the road, and haited at the One Hundred and Fourth street station. The fog was thick, and was growing more so every minute. and was growing more so every minute.

Passengers had got on and off, and the guard was just about to pull the signal wire for the start, when a terrific crash was felt in the rear, and every one knew that a collision had occurred.

A Ninth avenue train, which should have kept a good three minutes in the rear of the Sixth avenue, had come round the curve at a high rate of speed, and had

JOHN L.'S BLACKEYE GERMANY'S STAND.

Why Sullivan Does Not Come to No Neutrality Treaty Concerning

on the Pugilist's Optic.

Away the Color.

BOSTON, Jan. 24. - Why John L. Sullivan Sherman and Frye Say the United States has not gone to New York has excited some comment. Many explanations have been sent over the wires explaining his delay in going there, but the true reason has not yet been told.

According to best available information, John has been suffering with a black eye. A very black one. It was administered while on his recent jamboree some seven days ago and has proven harder to cure than the general run of black eyes.

He came by it in this wise. While he was in Behan's saloon, on Harrison avenue, some of his friends did their best to get him to go to Silvey Gookin's, where he could be kept from whiskey. He would not heed their advice. As a last resource, Annie Livingston was sent for. hoping that she might have influence enough with him to get him to go to Silvey's.

As soon as she heard where he was she went to him. Never beeding the crowd about him she walked up to him and said; "John, come with me. You are not doing right." He sneered at her and turned to the bar for more drink. Then this woman, who has gained such an unenviable notoriety through her friendship for Sullivan, approached him and taking him by the coat lapels said again :

and taking him by the coat lapels said again:

"John, if you ever cared for me, I want you to listen to my advice and leave the place with me at once."

"Leave go," was his surly rejoinder.

She tried to pull him towards the door, whereupon he became savage and made a motion as if to strike her.

The woman turned pale, and quick as a flash clinched her right hand and planted it with telling effect on John's right optic.

He has taught her how to spar, and she knows more than a good many noted sports do about the art of self-defense.

Sullivan fell back against the bar, gasping.
Every one thought that in the next minute
he would strike the plucky woman down, and several men moved forward, as if to get

York Was Downed.

A good and exciting cocking main is the kind of sport that is enjoyed and relished by the oldtimer who is foud of making a bet and seeing two feathered warriors battle to the death.

At midnight last night the pit was being put readiness for the cocking main between Ne York and Long Island, which was decided in a well-known pit on Staten Island.

The main was for $50 a battle and $500 on the general result, best six out of eleven.

Eleven pairs of birds weighed in, but it only required nine battles to decide the main. It was won by Long Island, who took six to New York's three.

rk's three. The main was one of the most exciting on cord and a large amount of money was won record and a large amount of money was won and lost.

About seventy-five persons were present.

The first battle was between a black red from New York and a pike from Long Island. In eighteen minutes the New York bird was killed.

The second battle went to New York's credit. The third was won by Long Island and the fourth by New York.

The New Yorkers at this point felt most confident of winning the main and began to bet their money freely, the currency being covered promptly in every instance by Long Islanders.

Long Island got a lead by winning the next two battles, and felt even more jubilant by winning the seventh in short order.

The eighth battle went to New York, and was the best contested one of the main.

The ninth and deciding battle was won by Long Island.

A SURPRISE TO MR. VANDERBILT.

The Dog Wasn't Killed, Was Worthless and Didn't Belong to Him. Millionaire William K. Vanderbilt and Chris-Antionaire william K. vanderbilt and Christian Roberts are adjoining neighbors at Oakdale, I. I. Mr. Vanderbilt's valuable St. Bernard dog strayed over to Mr. Roberts's grounds on Tuesday and the latter shot it. Yesterday he received a communication from Mr. Vanderbilt, and there may be a lawsuit.—Morning Paper.

"There is not a particle of truth in that item," said Mr. Vanderbilt to an Evening World reporter who called on him at the Grand Central Depot this morning.

"The dog was worthless and not valuable; it was not killed, but only injured, and it did not belong to me. Good-morning."

Mayor Grant Aroused by "The O'Brien Quietly Lays Wires and Euchres His Enemies.

He Finds That There Is No Li- To Be Chairman of the Republican Central Committee.

Chairman John J. O Brien! How does that sound to you, members of Does it not jar harshly upon the tympanums grief and anger.

John J. O'Brien, the "pure" politician, the friend of Boss Platt, the man whom you, silk-stockings, and you, police justices, excoroners and petty bosses, would read out of the party, is slated to be Chairman of the next Republican Central Committee of tops county.

out of the party, is slated to be Chairman of the next Republican Central Committee of tals county.

It's a pretty story of remarkably clever political work, which conclusively proves that the powers of The O'Brien as a leader have been greatly underrated by the men who, but one short month ago incontinently expelled his friends, Johnny Brodsky, George J. Kraus and Aiderman Christian Geotz from the county organization and read his entire district out of the party.

A month ago John J. O'Brien was thought to be effectually squelched, and the goodygoody element of the Republican party, which had been terribly shocked at the report of wholesale bribery and corruption in his rotten borough, were satisfied with the apparent purification of the party. To day John J. O'Brien is in a position to dictate the Republican polities of this city.

How was this revolution accomplished? How has it been possible to effect such a change so quietly that not a whisper of the affair was heard until the very eve of the meditated coup d'état?—for the final enrolment for the primaries which will elect the members of the central organization will occur to-morrow evening.

It is the pleasure of The Evening Working to dispel the cloud of mystery which has enveloped the workings of the conspirators who have been working for weeks under the generalship of O'Brien to organize the Central Committee.

which has enveloped the workings of the conspirators who have been working for weeks ander the generalship of O'liren to organize the Central Committee, which had so confidently expected to reorganize his little district.

It is a case of tit-for-tat, with a mighty big emphasis on the "tit."

THE EVENING WOELD was the first to discover that there existed in the Teuth.

Twelfth and Fourteenth Assembly districts strong organizations of Republicans opposed to the recognized leaders of those districts and it further found that the fine hand of the Mogul of the Eighth was engi-neering the formation of these opposition or-

and have taken every precaution against bomb throwing such as occurred at Chicago.

Hiew Out the Gas.

A man who registered at the Morton Hotel, 52 Morton street, at 1 o'clock this morning, was found dead in his room at 9.30. He had blown Republicans under new leaders was not confined to these localities. It clearly could not be a case of mere personal spite then. The movement was too general. It meant a Napoleonic coupd ctat, which is to be accomplished in this way:

To-morrow night the Republican representatives to the Central-Committee will be named from every district favorable to O'Brien.

O'Brien.

Where his supporters are known to have a majority of the enrolled Republicans, and a walk-over is certain in a fight, there may be united primaries, and the old leaders will be where success is doubtful in a contest in-dependent primaries will be held by the op-position, as in the Twenty-third District, where John A. Eagleson's independents will not attempt to cope with Boss Raymond's coherts.

The strength of the revolutionist army is much greater than is suppresed. Among its grand marshats are ex-Senator Thomas C. Platt, Cornelius N. Bliss, Chairman of the Republican State Committee: Subway Com-missioner Jacob Hess, and Charley Sweeney. who was so prominent in the Harrison and Morton Dry Goods Club.

Morton Dry Goods Club.

With such generals there is no doubt of success. The O'lfrenites will undoubtedly compose a majority of the enrolled Republicans of the city, and they are bound to be recognized as the only Sumon pure Republican general organization.

The question of recognition will be decided by the State Committee if an appeal should be made by the disappointed crowd of ex-bosses, and that is already settled, because the State Committee is Platt's and Platt and the State Committee is Platt's and Platt and Fliss, its Chairman, are with the revolutionists.

This will effectually dispose of Col. S.V. R. Criger and the other Union Leaguers and supporters of Warner Miller in the present Central Committee and give another con-vincing proof of the superior political sagac-ity and power of Boss Platt for the consideran of President Harrison in his Cabinet-John J. O'Brien will be elected Chairman of the new organization because Platt has

Mr. Platt wants practical politics to prevail in coming campaigns and nobody can better serve them than Mr. O'Brien. The amateur politicians who are for ballot reform and the expenditure of no money except for legitimate purposes are all to be shelved, and good old Mike Cregau days are to be re-ed.

But one of the present leaders, Barney Biglin, of the Eighteenth District, expressed any sympathy for the O'Brien men who were bounced by the Central Committee last December, and he may be allowed to remain a leader. It is certain, though, that many of the leaders, including probably Emigration Commis-sioner Taintor, Theodore Cowboy Roosevelt, Police Justices Patterson and Smith, John R. Nugent, John H. Gunner and Frank Raymond will have to go.

The Proposed New Track at Elizabeth Food for Talk.

[SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.] NORTH HUDSON DRIVING PARK, N. J., Jan. 24. - Lessee Carr. when spoken to regarding the proposed new track which is to be built at Elizabeth, under the management of Dwyer Brothers and other prominent horsemen, said that it did not trouble him much, as there were two bills pending in Trenton, one of which will surely become a law, making a tax of 1 per cent on the gross receipts of the Jersey tracks, and that if Guttenburg was forced to give way under the pressure, other tracks would have to follow suit. The weather was misty and threatening and the track slippery. In the first race, after being three-quarters of an hour at post, John Shaw, the second choice, made all the running and won easily. Duke of Cherwell fell, but neither horse nor rider was injured. In the second race there was another long delay at the post, as Starter Carr had one of his off days. Bloss was the favorite, but fell on the first turn, and Bergen, his rider, had his right wrist sprained. His Grace, a 10 to 1 chance, Pries $200, for maidens; selling allowances; five-eighths of a mile.
